

Electronics Recycling Opportunity In Berrien County Wednesday

Description

Berrien County residents have an extra chance to get unneeded electronic items recycled for free Wednesday. Berrien County Parks Director Jill Adams tells WSJM News Green Earth Electronics Recycling in St. Joseph will stay open later than usual so people can drop off items. They'll take anything with a cord or that runs on batteries. Adams says it's better to dispose of those items in this way for multiple reasons. "All electronics contain things like plastic, metal, glass, and other recyclable materials, but some electronics also contain hazardous components such as lead or mercury," Adams said. "So keeping these materials out of the regular waste stream is good for environmental health as well as public health.”
